Future Productions

Our original intention was to take the Brahan Seer on tour, with the Gaelic College on Skye and the opening of the new Culloden Visitor Centre being the highest priorities. Unfortunately, Sabhal mor Ostaig have no courses until October and the Culloden opening has been put back to November, neither of which will fit with the run-up to the pantomime.

The pantomime is selected; for those of you who don't know, Bill has agreed to direct Treasure Highland.

John Claudius is to do either a Shakespeare, or possibly The Beggar's Opera, next June.

At the moment, that's it, which on the face of it is a little worrying. We think we should try to get an entry into the SCDA one act play competition with a couple of others to make a run, and there was some support for a full bilingual play with the Gaelic Drama Group, if we can find a suitable script. This is all potentially good news, but we would still prefer to be spoilt for choice. Wannabe directors, where are you?

Pantomime synopsis

Treasure Highland is a story of pirates, witches and haggis set in and around Inverness. There's a missing treasure map and some luckless, and very confused, tourists, not to mention all the usual ingredients for pantomime, such as a dame, a heroine and principal boy, several incompetent villains and, hopefully, lots of laughs.

Principal parts include:

Big Jeannie The Dame
Jackie Her daughter
Brian Sayer Principal boy and prophet
Long John Silver Pirate
Blackbeard Pirate King and villain
Pinkbeard } {Blackbeard's
Greenbeard} {assistants
Other speaking parts:
Ben HimandHur
Old Man of Hoy
Loch Monster
Tour Guide
Three witches (could double)
Ben Gunn (could double)
Plus three or four smaller parts.
Chorus of tourists and a small school party
